

Run To The Door

Every time a bell rings, Every time a bird sings I run to the door
Every time the wind blows even though my heart knows I run to the door
Every day is lonely and your memory is only making me want you more
Then somebody goes by, acting like a fool I run to the door

Memories that never die all alone I sit and cry

16 BAR SOLO – (THEN NEW KEY)

When I see the sunrise, Every time my heart cries I run to the door
Early in the twilight, even at the midnight I run to the door
Every day is lonely and your memory is only making me want you more
Then somebody goes by, acting like a fool I run to the door

Memories that never die all alone I sit and cry

16 BAR SOLO – (THEN NEW KEY)

When I hear my heart call, when I hear a foot fall I run to the door
Wishing I could see you, wishing it could be you I run to the door
Though you'll never want me, memories will haunt me as I walk the floor
Then somebody goes by, acting like a fool I run to the door

Memories that never die all alone I sit and cry
